April 18th, 2020 - The numerous software protection techniques have been developed and one of such software protection techniques is code obfuscation The code obfuscation is a mechanism for hiding the original algorithm data structures or the logic of the code or to harden or protect the code which is considered as intellectual property of the software writer from the unauthorized reverse engineering process'
